Dr. Mike Kozuh teaches in the Technology and Civilization sequence, as well as undergraduate and graduate classes in ancient Near Eastern and Mediterranean history. His other research interests are in the infrastructure of empire, the deification of things and technique in ancient history, and understanding the ways by which legal and administrative actions became authoritative in ancient Mesopotamia.

On this 10 day study abroad program in Greece, students will split their time between the bustling city and the mountainous countryside. In Greece, student will visit the famous site of the oracle of Apollo at Delphi and explore the mountaintop monasteries at Meteora. Participants will also enjoy the spectacular geography, taste local cuisine, and visit artisans among many other trip attractions in this ancient land.

Honors Study & Travel Scholarships are available for this course. For more info contact: Ken Thomas | kdto011@auburn.edu